To access Australian Government subsidised aged care services, you will need to register with myagedcare for an assessment by calling myagedcare or using one of the online forms.

What happens after you've registered with myagedcare?

You should hear from myagedcare or an assessment organisation within three weeks. They will tell you whether you are eligible for an assessment and, if so, you can agree a time for the assessor to come to your home.

If you haven't heard anything in this time, call myagedcare on 1800 200 422. If you have a reference number please have this handy when you call.

If you have been given an aged care reference number write it here:

Don't worry if you don't have a number, myagedcare will still be able to help you.

What happens at the assessment?

With your consent, a trained assessor will come to your home. They will assess your care needs and eligibility for services.

If you are eligible for subsidised aged care, the assessor will work with you to develop a support plan which addresses your care needs, goals and service preferences.

Someone else can be with you as your support person at this assessment visit. You can also ask the assessor about having an Auslan or in-language interpreter.

You should have:

- ID for you and anyone you want to be a representative and talk on your behalf: Medicare card and one other form of ID - such as DVA card, driver's licence, healthcare card, or passport
- any information you already have about aged care services that you may want to discuss
- information on any support you receive.

What happens after the assessment?

After the assessment you will find out if you are eligible for subsidised aged care services and which type.

Then you need to:

- choose services: the 'Find a provider' tool on the myagedcare website can help you locate and compare services. Your assessor and myagedcare can also help.
- find out about costs: myagedcare and service providers can give you information about costs. You will be told if you need a financial assessment.
