About Australian Unity

Australian Unity is one of Australia's oldest companies, with origins dating back more than 175 years. We were in Australia before the gold rushes, before Ned Kelly was born and before there was a telegraph or railway between Melbourne and Sydney.

Over the years we have grown in many ways but we have always promoted the wellbeing of everyday Australians. For instance, back in the 1890s one of our founding organisations campaigned for Australia to become a Federation. Australia's first two prime ministers, Sir Edmund Barton and Alfred Deakin, were both members of our society as was the first Australian-born Governor General in 1930, Sir Isaac Isaacs.

Today, Australian Unity actively identifies and assists with a diverse range of health, financial and lifestyle needs of our members, customers and the broader community so that they can thrive.

As a mutual company, Australian Unity is owned by its members rather than shareholders. This means that we do not pay any of our profits to shareholders but rather reinvest them back into further services to directly support our members and customers.
